

These graphs represent the profile of the students who provided their feedback on various aspects of the College. Graph 1 depicts course-wise distribution of respondents over the three academic years from 2018 to 2021. Participation from Commerce stream students has been the maximum in all years under consideration primarily due to Commerce being the largest department in terms of student intake. Both male and female students have been participating in the process and the ratio between them seems to be trending towards equitability (Graph 2). Students from more number of courses are participating in the feedback mechanism of the College, as is evident from Graph 3 (academic year 2020-21 is the special case being the year of the pandemic).

EXTENT OF SYLLABI COVERED IN THE CLASS

DELIVERY OF SYLLABI IN THE CLASS

These graphs depict student responses with regard to syllabi of the courses taught in the college. According to Graph 4, majority of students have considered the content of the syllabi to be ranging from 'good' to 'excellent'. As per Graph 5, students are of the opinion that with each passing year the extent of syllabi covered in the class is improving. Students have also exhibited greater satisfaction to the content delivery in the class, despite incidence of online teaching mode, as is evident from Graph 6.

USE OF TEACHING AIDS AND ICT IN THE CLASS TO FACILITATE TEACHING

8

INTEGRATION OF THEORY AND PRACTICAL IN CLASSES(WHEREVER APPLICABLE)

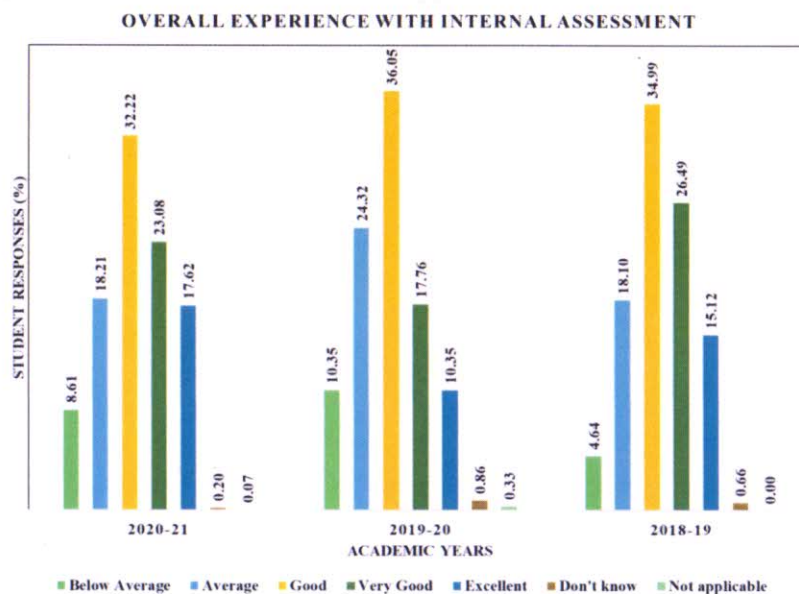

The pandemic has presented a unique set of disruptions and opportunities. However, our faculty has always been using teaching aids and ICT in class to facilitate teaching and to efficiently integrate theory and practical in classes (wherever applicable). Majority of students' responses in these areas have ranged from 'good' to 'excellent' during the last three academic years.

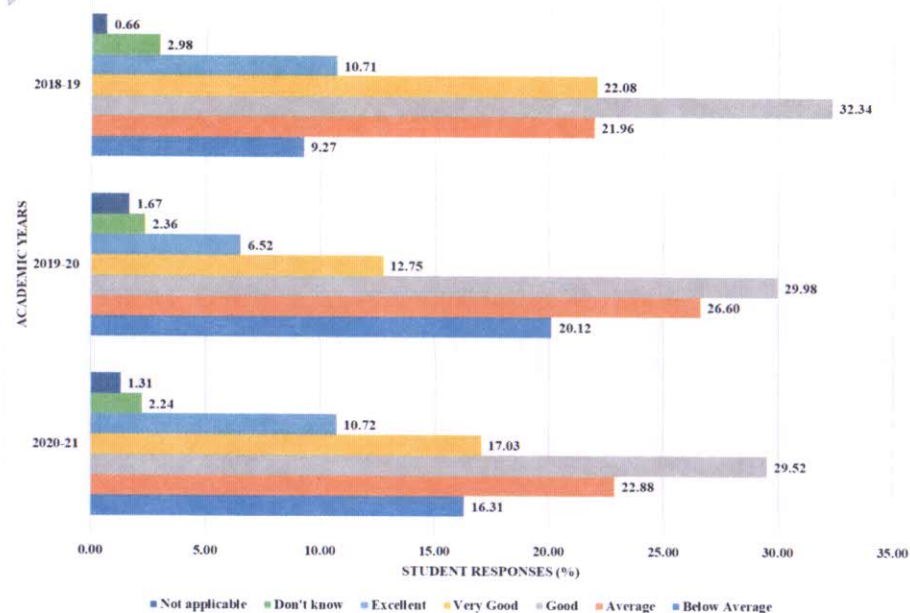

Graph 9 depicts students' overall experience with internal assessment. There has been a slight decrease in the rating of this experience by the students ('good', 'very good' and 'excellent' categories combined) in the academic year 2020-21. This could be due to the incidence of pandemic. Students' feedback on their interaction with teachers during 2020-21 has been better than that in 2019-20 (Graph10), despite adoption of online teaching mode.

PARTICIPATION IN CO-ACADEMIC AND CULTURAL EVENTS

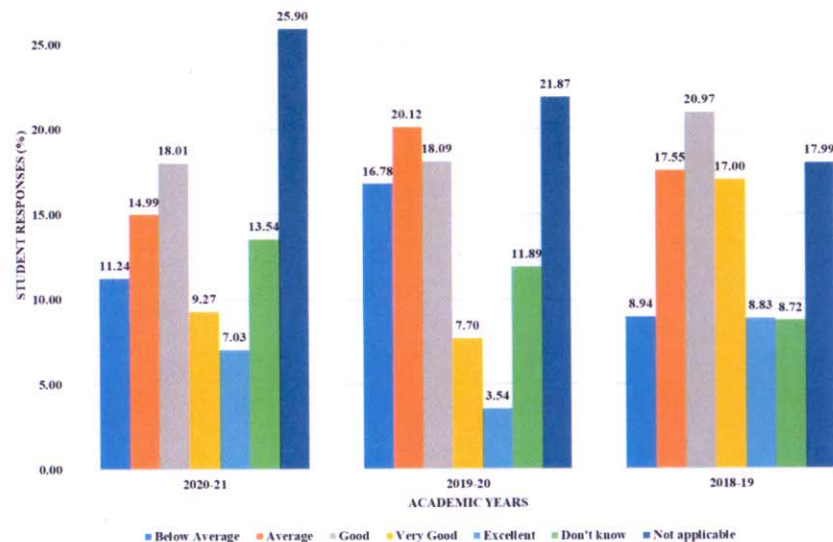

Students' feedback to opportunities provided to them to participate in seminars/workshops/webinars and co-scholastic and cultural events has been quite positive especially during the last two academic years. During the pandemic also many such activities which were organized for the benefit of the students witnessed overwhelming student participation.

College website has been able to garner more positive feedback from the students with each passing year (Graph 20). The credit for this goes to the college website committee constantly updating the website and making it more student friendly. Once again due to lack of physical access to college facilities, students' feedback of internet facility in the College has been less positive in 2020-21 as compared to that in 2019-20 (Graph 19).

Greater percentage of parents found the college website useful in the year 2020-21 as compared to the year 2019-20 (Graph 4). This must be attributable to the commendable efforts our College website committee to continuously update and upgrade the website and make it more informative and user friendly.

The percentage of parents, who believed that the teaching-learning environment provided by the College is either “outstanding” or “very good” or “good” increased in the academic year 2020-21 as compared to 2019-20 (Graph 5). Similar was the case with regard to industry-academia exposure provided by the College (Graph6). It should be noted that parents’ ratings on the aforementioned two criteria have improved in the year 2020-21 despite pandemic and consequent shift to online mode of teaching and learning.

The pandemic led to a unique set of disruptions in the routine conduct of the academic institutions. The year 2020 was the year of new learnings and simultaneous unlearning of age-old ways of doing things. Despite College's honest endeavours to maintain the quality of academic environment there were certain areas wherein the parents' satisfaction levels slackened a little in the academic year 2020-21 as compared to the academic year 2019-20. These areas were co-scholastic activities and library facility provided by the college (Graphs 9 and 10). We are hopeful of bettering ourselves on these fronts in the current academic session.
