As a part of Quaestus 2019, the event 'Pitchers' was organized which was a two – day event. It was an inter – college competition. The concept of the event was based on the students requiring to make a business pitch. Students were given topics or situations based on which they had to raise funds for their business and make a business pitch. In order to make the event more interesting, certain twists or changes in occurrences of certain events were introduced in the previously given situations. Based on these 'new situations' students were needed to change or modify their business pitch while the business still remaining profitable.
